Volunteer Appreciation 2019

Have you ever wanted to feel like you are part of your Marine or Sailor's unit? A great way to do that is to become part of the Unit and Family Readiness Program as a Family Readiness Assistant or Volunteer. As a Family Readiness Assistant, you will play a vital role in helping maintain the readiness of 2nd Marines "Marine Family." By becoming a volunteer, you will assist the Deployment Readiness Coordinator (DRC) in planning, coordinating, and execution of unit events. It is also an opportunity to meet other family members in 2nd Marines and make some friends and you become part of the support group that assists one another and other members of the unit. We welcome you to provide new ideas and to assist with planning unit Family Readiness activities. So, whether you have plenty of time or only a few hours a month, we would love for you to become part of the Family Readiness program! If you would like more information on volunteering, contact the DRC at 910-381-6778. We look forward to hearing from you!

MilTax tax preparation and filing services

MilTax free preparation and e-filing software is made to be convenient for the military community. It was developed with the realities of military life in mind — scenarios that civilians rarely encounter — including deployments, combat pay, multiple moves and multi-state filing. This self-paced tax software allows you to:

- Complete and electronically file your federal return and up to three state tax forms.
- Check on your electronic filing status.
- Rest easy knowing that a tax software provider is by your side if you get audited.
- Get 100% accurate calculations, or the tax software provider will reimburse you up to $10,000. Terms and conditions apply.

MilTax e-filing software is easy to use, and free technical assistance is available if you need it. The system protects and safeguards the security and confidentiality of your personal information by using industry-recognized safeguards. For technical assistance, such as login issues, using the software, printing returns, etc., call 855-897-8639 and follow the prompts.

Earned income tax credit

Understand whether you can obtain an Earned Income Tax Credit to put more money in your pocket. These are federal income tax credits for low- and moderate- income working individuals and families. Be aware that:

- The credit can generate a refund if you do not have any taxes to pay.
- Service members and families may have an easier time qualifying for the credit because some forms of military income — such as pay earned during service in a combat zone or basic allowances for housing — are non-taxable and aren't included as part of your total income.

To find out more about the credit or tax help for military members and veterans, visit the IRS website.

Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program

You can meet with a military tax consultant for face-to-face assistance via the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program at no cost – for tax advice and preparation, return filing and other tax assistance. This IRS program offers free tax preparation and e-filing at sites on and off base. It also has sites overseas to help military members and their families. Find a Volunteer Income Tax Assistance location near you.

Financial Counseling

Should MilTax consultants help you get a tax refund, schedule a free financial counseling session with Military OneSource to figure out the best way to apply that refund to long-term savings goals. According to the IRS, filers received on average $2,577 in direct deposit tax refunds in 2019. So if you are expecting to get a refund this year, file early and replenish your savings. And you don't have to wait for your refund in the mail. Through Military OneSource MilTax, you can sign up to get your refund sent straight to your bank account through direct deposit.

Military Romance Scams: Are You a Target?

Military.com | By Barb Chiles

Are you dating or talking online to someone who says they are a military member? Have they asked you for funds or documents? You might be looking for true love, but chances are good that you are the victim of one of thousands of military scams conducted every day.

U.S. military officials have warned those involved in online dating to proceed with caution when corresponding with someone claiming to be a U.S. military member serving in Syria, Afghanistan or elsewhere.

Officials and websites like Military.com receive hundreds of questions or allegations a month from victims who state they got involved in an online relationship with someone who claims to be in the U.S. military but started asking for money for various false service-related needs such as transportation costs; communication fees; or marriage, processing or medical fees.

Victims of these online military scams often think they are doing a good deed by helping a military member. Instead, they have given their money to a scammer, sometimes losing thousands of dollars, with very low possibility of recovery.

The U.S. has established numerous task forces to deal with this growing epidemic. Unfortunately, the people committing these scams are often overseas -- using untraceable email addresses, routing accounts through numerous locations around the world and utilizing pay-per-hour Internet cyber cafes.

Are you being scammed? Here's how to know.

Military Scams: What to Look For

There are a variety of words and phrases used by scammers to hook unsuspecting men and women into relationships. Here are some examples:

- They say they are on a "peacekeeping" mission.
- They say they are looking for an honest woman.
- They note that their parents, wife or husband is deceased.
- They say they have a child or children being cared for by a nanny or other guardian.
- They profess their love almost immediately.
- They refer to you as "my love," "my darling" or any other affectionate term almost immediately.

- They tell you they cannot wait to be with you.
- They tell you they cannot talk on the phone or via webcam for security reasons.
- They tell you they are sending you something (money, jewelry) through a diplomat.
- They claim to be in the U.S. military; however, their English and grammar do not match that of someone born and raised in the United States.

Military Scams: How to Avoid Them - You can avoid being taken for a ride by a military scam artist by practicing a few easy habits.

Never send money. Be extremely suspicious if you are asked for money for transportation costs, communication fees or marriage processing and medical fees via Western Union.

Do your research. If you do start an Internet-based relationship with someone, check them out. Research what they are telling you with someone who would know, such as a current or former service member.

Communicate by phone. Be very suspicious if you never get to actually speak with the person on the phone or are told you cannot write or receive letters in the mail. Servicemen and women serving overseas will often have an APO or FPO mailing address. Internet or not, service members always appreciate a letter in the mail.

Fact-check. Many of the negative claims made about the military and the supposed lack of support and services provided to troops overseas are far from reality. Check the facts.

Don't use a third party. Be very suspicious if you are asked to send money or ship property to a third party or company. Often, the company exists but has no idea or is not a part of the scam.

Watch for African countries. Be very suspicious if the person you are corresponding with wants you to mail anything to an African country. While some U.S. troops are stationed there, they are few and far between. Someone claiming to be in a place where we have few troops is suspect. Many scams originate in Nigeria.

Watch for grammar. Be aware of common spelling, grammatical or language errors in the emails.

Be guarded. Be very suspicious of someone you have never met and who pledges their love at warp speed.

Family Nutrition Information

Does your family have food insecurities? Food insecurities is defined as the state of being without reliable access to a sufficient quantity of affordable, nutritious food. According to an article from the Center for Strategic & International Studies titled “Food Insecurity among U.S. Veterans and Military Families”, “a study published in May 2021, nearly 33 percent of respondents at a major U.S. Army installation were classified as marginally food insecure in 2019. Among nearly 7,800 military family respondents, 12.5 percent were food insecure in 2019, according to the Military Family Advisory Network (MFAN) Military Family Support Programming Survey. (<https://www.csis.org/analysis/food-insecurity-among-us-veterans-and-military-families>). If you fall into one of these categories, there are resources available for military families. Families with children under the age of 5 may be eligible for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC). If you have children over the age of five you may be eligible for Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP). There is more information below on these programs.

Important Suicide Prevention & Counseling Services

Suicide Prevention

National Suicide Prevention Lifeline
Call 1-800-273-8255
Available 24 hours everyday

Saving lives requires vigilance. Each tragic loss to suicide has far reaching impact on families, friends, and Marines left behind. At the unit level, suicide effects morale, unit cohesion, and ultimately unit effectiveness and readiness of Marines. Our prevention programs are designed to help Marines who are thinking about suicide or engaging in suicidal behavior, and those who may be at risk for suicide because of a mental disorder, or because they belong to a group with higher rates of suicide attempts or deaths. Services provided are:

- Develop in all Marines the skills needed to recognize and address suicide warning signs, which include appearing overwhelmed by recent stressors; experiencing a fall from glory, loss of honor, and change in status within a unit or relationship; withdrawing from friends, family and society; losing interest in hobbies, work and school; feeling helpless, worthless and trapped in a situation.
- Common risk factors and triggers that should not be ignored are legal or disciplinary problems, relationship problems and financial problems. Substance abuse, behavioral health diagnosis and Permanent Change of Station (PCS) problems appear to increase risk for suicide.
- The DSTRESS Line provides 24/7 phone, chat and Skype line counseling services utilizing a “Marine to Marine” approach.

- Confidential care worldwide ensuring access to behavioral health services and assisting Marines and families in navigating the many support resources available.
- Care coordination and continued 90 day follow-up through the Marine Intercept Program for all Marines identified with suicidal ideation or attempt.
- Conquering Stress with Strength is the newest practical application workshop facilitated by Marine Corps Family Team Building providing skills to effectively respond to high-stress situations that include suicide prevention.

Learn More - Marines, Sailors, and their families may access help directly through Community Counseling Program. There is no wrong door for getting help. Counselors conduct screenings, actively assess needs, provide counseling, and connect Marines and families with additional resources through referrals and direct handoffs between programs and facilities. If you recognize warning signs or believe someone is in immediate danger, call 911 or seek help from a mental health care.
